

Applying to Private Colleges

Rae-Anne Mena
Saint Louis University

Types of Admission

- Open Admissions
 - Almost all students are accepted.
 - Examples: Community College
- Selective Admissions
 - Certain GPAs, ACT/SAT scores are required. Also, an essay and/or interview are often required.
 - Examples: Some State Universities, Smaller Private Colleges
- Competitive Admissions
 - Space is very limited. High school course selection, test scores, and Extracurricular involvement are evaluated very carefully.
 - Examples: Some State Universities, Ivy League Institutions

Admissions Terminology

- Rolling
- Early Action (EA)
- Restrictive Early Action (REA)
- Early Decision (ED)
- Regular Decision (RG)

Parts of the application

- Transcript
- Standardized Test Scores
- List of Activities
- Letters of Recommendation
- Essays/Personal Statements

What is the admission committee looking for?

- ACADEMIC RECORD

- Course Selection
- Grades
- SAT / ACT

- PERSONAL CHARACTERISTICS

- Extracurriculars/
- Leadership
- Recommendations
- Essays

Academic Preparation

- Admissions Offices evaluate student transcripts by considering the following factors:
 - Enrollment in Advanced Placement and/or the IB Program
 - Choosing high school courses which prepare students for their college major.
 - Example: more science and math for prospective engineering or pre-med students.
 - 12th grade course selection and grades are very important in college admission decisions
 - Your high school
 - The percentage of graduates who go on to four-year colleges and universities
 - Which advanced courses are offered at the high school

The Transcript

- Your GPA and class rank.
- The courses you took and your grade trends.
- Have you challenged yourself appropriately?
- What does junior year tell us?
- Can you explain the bobbles?
- We will notice if you think senior=slacker.

Standardized Tests

- Which test should I take?
- How many times should I take it?
- What do schools do with my score?
- What about the writing portion?
- Is the ACT or SAT the only number that really matters?

Direct from ACT

ACT has published “benchmark” scores that correlate to a 75% likelihood of earning a “C” or better in that class in college.

These are:

English	18
Math	22
Reading	21
Science	24

Letters of Recommendation

- Clear and comprehensive recommendations can make a difference in admissions decisions.
- Recommendations can come from teachers, counselors, coaches, advisers, employers, etc.
- Provide 3-4 weeks notice for a recommendation to be written.
- Provide a “brag sheet” to the person writing the recommendation.
- Recommendations are reviewed looking for the following information:
 - Comparisons to other students in the class.
 - Information about the school grading system and/or competition for grades.
 - Illustrative examples or anecdotes.
 - Personal information (example personal problems or health issues which had an impact on performance.)
 - Other personal traits or study habit information.

Extracurricular activities

- Commitment, level of accomplishment, initiative, and leadership are most important.
- Admissions offices will ask the following questions when reviewing student resumes/activity lists in an application:
 - How much time does the student devote to this activity?
 - Is there evidence of leadership—is the student an officer or leader in the organization/sport?
 - Balance is best—do not limit involvement to one type of activity.
 - Volunteerism is very important.

List of Activities

- Don't join every club senior year just to make it "look good."
- We like to see commitment and passion!
- Don't forget work and outside activities, too.
- This is a good time to brag a little bit!
- There are no activities that "count more" than others.

Personal Statements and Essays

- If the application asks a question, answer it. If it imposes a word limit, you'll have to stick to it.
- The “tell us about yourself” essay
 - Simple topics work too!
 - Let us get to know you.
 - Be passionate!
- Make sure your voice comes through in all of the written portions of the application.

Hints for Writing the College Essay

- Start early.
- Be yourself.
- Be honest.
- Stay focused on your topic.
- Write and re-write.
- Get a second opinion.
- Proofread.
- Know which school you are applying to.
- Don't confuse applying on-line with sending an e-mail.

What admissions counselors think:

100 admission counselors were asked to name the top 4 hints for high school seniors to make their admission application more competitive.

- Ask for recommendations early
- Thoroughly complete entire application
- Don't be modest on activities
- Apply before the application deadline

Applying for Admission

- Narrow your choices
- Review college admission test requirements
- Know application fees and deadlines
- Know scholarship requirements
- Submit application materials
- Application for admission
 - If applying online, be sure to notify counselor so that transcripts, recommendations, and test scores are sent to colleges and universities.
 - High school transcript
 - Admission test results
 - Recommendations

Questions?

Rae-Anne Mena

Colorado Regional Representative

Saint Louis University

menar@slu.edu

720-344-4307