Dear Buffalo Trail Families,

While I know that the first week of Remote Learning has had its share of ups and downs, I am very proud of our students, staff, and families for the perseverance and compassion that has been exhibited thus far. We definitely wish we could be in-person with our students, but the health and safety of our community is top priority. Thank you for extending grace to our school staff as we navigate this current reality.

We understand that Remote Learning is impacting families in many different ways, and there is no singular way of doing things that can meet everyone’s needs perfectly. This year’s Remote Learning plan looks very different than it did last spring. We are happy to be able to provide live/synchronous teaching to students, but we also know that for many valid reasons, there are families who cannot be online at their student’s designated time. Some families have multiple students across different grades and schools. Some families are having difficulty with internet connectivity. As a staff, we must also extend grace to you, our families. If you are finding that challenges are arising for your student, please reach out to us so we can problem solve together. We want to help out to the greatest extent possible.

Remember that there is no Remote Learning the week of November 23rd. We hope that you will be able to find time to step away from a screen, hug your family members, and relish in the many things you are grateful for – even in the midst of a pandemic. I have so many things to be grateful for – most importantly all of our students, families, and staff. The herd at Buffalo Trail is amazing!

Thank you for your support and partnership!

Fondly,

Tamara Speidel
Please know that we are not at school, but are working hard from home. Teachers are still taking attendance and if your student will be absent, you can still use the app or call the attendance line to report the absence.

Did you know that Buffalo Trail has an app?

The Buffalo Trail Elementary app by SchoolInfoApp is free and provides parents with quick access to everything school-related including reporting absences, calendars, contact information for teachers, important documents, cafeteria menus, and more.
